

Dear Julissa:

You asked a very good question about how I think this work displayed power and help me to realize I didn't articulate that point clearly in my post. I think we often time associate the concept of power to the concept of 'might' but forgot an even more powerful power is associate with 'gentleness' and 'compassion' that Jesus Christ demonstrate in his life. I think the displayed of 'power' in this work is highlight in the gentle eye contacts between the two figures in this work. In the illustration of their eye contacts, Mutu illusrated the power of 'gentleness' and 'compassion' which showcased the most important power of this world- "Love"!

Regards,

Frank
